

INFANT CARE

The first few years of life are crucial for body and brain development. This means infants need special care and attention.

Easy Tips for Parents:

1. Interact with your infant often so they know that you are there for them.
2. Holding your baby helps them feel safe and secure.
3. Singing lullabies to premature babies may improve their health.

Being there for your infant is one of the best things you can do for them. They need you more than you may think!
