FEBRUARY IS Black History Month

HISTORY

Black History Month began as Black History Week in remembrance of Fredrick Douglass, an abolitionist, and former US President, Abraham Lincoln. The week-long event later became Black History Month in 1976 and was created to recognize and honor the contributions of African American individuals (Boatner, n.d.).

THE INFLUENCE

Black individuals across the world, including in the United States, have faced centuries of oppression and marginalization. Black History Month was created to honor the achievements and contributions of many significant historical Black figures. As of 2020, 46.9 million Black or African American people were living in the US (United States Census Bureau, 2022).

With 46.9 million Black Americans, it is essential to educate ourselves, recognize the disparities Black individuals have faced/ may face, and become more culturally aware.

TEEN DATING VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

Teen Dating Violence (TDV) is physical, emotional, verbal, or sexual violence/ abuse committed by a partner in an intimate relationship. These behaviors are typically used to gain or maintain power and control. TDV usually involves those 13-19 years old and across all demographics.

Teen Dating Violence impacts the victim and can affect their family, friends, and community. Identifying, addressing, and preventing TDV works towards the goal of creating a future without violence for the next generation. In 2017, the CDC reported 1 in 11 female and 1 in 15 male high school students experienced physical violence in a relationship (New York State Coalition Against Domestic Violence, 2023).

Declared for the first time in 2010 by Congress, Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month has taken place each February since then.

Behaviors that may be indicative of a TDV relationship include:

- Invasions of privacy
- Pressuring partner into unwanted sexual activity
- Unexpected and unpredictable anger/mood swings
- False accusations & jealousy
- Blaming any relationship difficulties on partner

(Rainbow Services, 2022)

Survivors of TDV may experience the following adverse outcomes:

- Depression
- Substance misuse
- Suicidal ideation
- Disordered Eating
- Poor academic performance
- Unplanned pregnancy
- Risky sexual behavior
- Heightened risk of future domestic violence victimization
